Spirituality and the future of food and farming

A three-day seminar with Colin Tudge

Chisholme House, Scottish Borders
Bank holiday weekend
April 29 – May 2, 2016

Time for a food and farming renaissance

There's a glorious future for food and farming.
We have the tools. We have the know how.
Now we have to work on our thinking and our vision.

Time to begin

We owe it to the future to begin changing now. This weekend is part of the beginning. Learn more and see how new ideas about food and farming can be put in to practice with Colin Tudge.

Colin Tudge

Colin Tudge is a biologist who developed the idea of Enlightened Agriculture. He is the author of many books. His latest is Six Steps back to the Land.

About this seminar

Thinking differently, seeing afresh, farming wisely

How can we farm wisely? We will need to think differently: think differently about economics, politics, science and technology. We will need to see the land as more than a simple resource, learning from the visions the great spiritual traditions have passed down.

The weekend begins at 7pm on Friday 29 April and ends with lunch on Monday 2 May (Early May bank Holiday). Numbers are limited so early booking is advised. The small numbers will allow for plenty of time for detailed discussion.

Chisholme

Chisholme is a school which offers an education based on teachings drawn from all the major traditions. With its organic garden and tradition of good food (which participants will enjoy) Chisholme offers an ideal setting for this seminar.

Cost and booking

£160 including full board and lodging for three nights or £100 non-residential. A £40 non-refundable deposit is needed in order to confirm your place; the balance is payable when you arrive. We try to ensure that people are not excluded for financial reasons and so may be able to offer a reduced fee to those who need it. To book contact secretary@chisholme.org.
